Opera "Carmen" Will Be Presented At SSC Nov. 22

Opera A La Carte was the fare served up by an enterprising young group of talented players under the banner of the National Opera Company, formerly Graft Roots Opera. For twelve years the Company has brought entertainment to varied sponsors including schools, college lycueum courses, civic groups, and concert associations. The company performed at Savannah State College in Melvindale Auditorium on November 22, at 8:30 p.m. in a performance of "Carmen."

The roster of this nationally famous troupe lists singers from Indiana, Tennessee, North Carolina, Ohio, Missouri, New York, Montana and Pennsylvania. Three of the singers have just returned from studying and singing in Vienna, Austria, and other European cities. Practically all of the young singers have college degrees or the equivalent from music schools and most of them have enjoyed considerable experience in opera as well as the concert, oratorio and television.

The National Opera Company has proved to be a haven for young professional singers desiring employment and experience. Each season auditions are held in New York and Raleigh and only the most outstanding voices are chosen. Acting ability and appearance as well as voice and musicianship are strongly considered.

The troupe puts forth its maximum effort in every performance, with the result a new audience of opera lovers is being formed. The average man is discovering that this form of entertainment, when sung in English, can be enjoyable.

Literary Journal to Be Published by the Boar's Head Club Members

By Norman B. Elmore

The members of the Boar's Head Club have made plans to publish a literary journal during the school year 1960-61. Since there are so many talented students in the creative writing field on campus the club thought it would be an ideal situation to use the talents of fellow students. Persons interested in submitting poems, short stories, or essays to be published in this journal, may give their entries to any of the English majors or minors who are members of the Boar's Head Club by December 10.

The club is going to sponsor an All-College Assembly during the month of February and will distribute the journal on the day of the assembly. This project will submit articles for publication. All interested persons consult with Dr. N. V. McCullough, Chairman, Department of English, or any member of the Boar's Head Club for further details about the journal.

President's Message

During the past decade, colleges in this section of the country have been increasingly aware of the effectiveness of their educational programs. The tendency has been to use instruments to determine the preparedness of individuals to participate in programs leading to increased opportunities and privileges.

The large increase in scholarship programs and financial aid to students attending college has made it necessary to develop objective methods for selecting applicants. The tendency to use objective methods for selection has been employed in industry and government for many years. The extension of the selective process may be expected to spread to the majority of programs requiring a college education as a basis for consideration. In our own state, all high school graduates expecting to enter any of the 116 undergraduate units of the University System of Georgia are required to submit, prior to admission—as a part of their requirements the scores on the College Entrance Examination Board's Scholastic Aptitude Test. This program which has been followed for the past three years will be continued.

The temporary measures provided during the first years of the program will be discontinued. In the past, some of the colleges have been permitted to administer the examinations after freshmen had arrived on the college campus. Beginning in the Fall of 1961, freshmen students will be admitted only if they have already taken the College Board examinations. It is to be expected that the purpose and objective for such examinations will be utilized to provide better educational opportunities for students who enter college.

What fear which many students have for examination is probably due to a lack of familiarity with the tests and the function which they serve. Increased opportunity to take tests and to understand how they are used will remove much of the fear and dread. When students realize that examinations are used almost as much outside of college as they are during the college years, they will understand that these instruments are becoming increasingly useful in all aspects of our economy. Students who are unable to work to their best advantage on examinations and tests will discover that the opportunity for employment in industry, the professions—including teaching, and government services will be limited.

Every test should be considered an opportunity for the student to learn something about his thoroughness in the field, and his ability to take the test in a manner that is most advantageous to him. Many of the tests taken by students in college are returned to them after they have been scored or corrected. The serious student studies these tests when they are returned in order that he may discover why he was successful or unsuccessful on various items. This type of reaction to test materials can be expected to enhance one's ability to perform well on the examinations. While the techniques for taking examinations are necessary for effective performances, it must be emphasized that they are not a substitute for thoroughness in study and learning.

In the decade of the '60s, examinations may be expected to become standard procedure for scholarships, loans, admission to professional schools, and federal government positions in a great group of semi-professional occupations. Every college student is acquainted with the fact that for a number of years such examinations have been required for applicants to schools of medicine, dentistry, law, pharmacy, nursing, engineering, for teaching certificates, graduate school work, and many government positions. Examinations are a part of the age in which we live, and those reluctant to prepare in terms of time will be limited in their choices.

Tiger's Roar Exchange Near the 100 Mark

By E. J. Mac Swa McCroary

The Tiger's Roar is nearing the hundred mark for the exchanging of newspapers with other colleges and universities.

Of course, this is by no means the finishing mark of the exchange program. Looking forward to 1961, we are hoping to communicate even more with fellow schools. Truly, this is another fact which contributes to the statement.

The world is getting smaller and smaller. Despite the mileage, we find no obstacle in knowing about activities at Tuskegee, Xavier, Indiana U., Prairie View, and other schools.

Could we possibly afford not to correspond with the world congested with news? News! News! It is somewhat interesting to note that the editor of the Roar which seems to be motivated by the exchange program.

Would it not be "something else" if each college and university had a copy of your ideas and news? The Roar has already been thinking about it. Meanwhile, our "hats off" to all corresponding editors.

Savannah State Students Choose Kennedy

On October 28, Gladys Lambert, senior, took a political poll on the attitudes of 340 students on the 1960 Presidential Election.

This study was made in the form of a questionnaire. Those questioned were not required to sign their names. Of the 340 students, only 27 of the students were Catholic; 258 were Protestant; and 55 were members of other religious sects.

Controversial questions asked were:

1. Would you vote for a Catholic for President? (66%—yes), (6%—no) (28%—undecided)
2. Which candidate do you favor for the presidency? (Nixon—66%) (Kennedy—34%) (10%—undecided)
3. Which candidate's background makes him more qualified for the presidency? (Nixon—66%) (Kennedy—34%) (10%—undecided)
4. Do you believe Lyndon Johnson will carry the South for the Democratic Party in November? (37%—yes) (19%—no) (44%—undecided)
5. Which candidate's domestic policy meets your approval? (Kennedy—44%) (Nixon—32%) (neither—4%) (undecided—20%)
6. Which candidate's foreign policy meets your approval? (Nixon—44%) (Kennedy—34%) (undecided—25%) (neither—3%)

The results of this study show a cross section of student votes that were cast in the 1960 Presidential election for the respective parties and their candidates.

Importance of the College Newspaper

By James C. Matthews

The college newspaper plays an important role in college life. You may not know it, but colleges are represented to the outside world by student publications. The college newspaper does not only represent the college in the outside world, but it also serves as an outlet for informing students of the activities that have taken place on and off campus which concern them.

The college newspaper is an instrument of mass communication on campus. It is a publication by which the students may speak or voice their conceptions through editorials, news stories, poems, etc. This also raises the question of freedom of the student publication versus control. The college newspaper represents the students and gives them a chance to debate and test experimental thoughts, emotions, and beliefs. A free college newspaper gives self-expression of the outstanding moments on campus. It has many motives of expression and is as multifarious as human emotion.

The college newspaper does not only have a local campus value, but a professional value also. For many colleges are judged by their student publications. So far as the students are concerned, it can be concluded that a college newspaper holds the major spotlight of student expression in college life.

How Much Do You Know About U. S. Presidents?

You may find that the chief interest of this quiz lies in the answers and in the discovery of how little you know about the history of the President.

1. Who was the youngest man to be elected President?
2. What is the President's salary?
3. What state has contributed the largest number of Presidents?
4. What President never went to school?

Election Over—What Now?

By James DeVo

There are many dissatisfied individuals following a presidential election. Many of the dissatisfied individuals have such reactions and are shocked when they find out after the election that the expected support for their candidate really did not exist.

The defeated candidates along with their aides and many supporters are hurt and feel positive that they have been rendered a grave injustice. It is truly amazing to see, after presidential elections, the host of people who are virtually ignorant of the fact that justice is the only thing that can come to light after an election. When most candidates lose an election many of them pacify themselves by blaming their inability to win on the underhandedness of those who conducted the elections. Excuses are petty; it takes a good man to accept defeat and look forward to victory in future elections.

One must admit that it is not easy to accept defeat and that the individual who has the most defeat and sought after position is at stake. When one can never find it in himself to trust another person or group of persons, he is not to be trusted. When one wishes to have faith in himself, he must first of all have faith in others.

The vast majority of us fail to recognize the fact that the masses do not select leaders. Leaders, such as the President of the U. S., for the most part, emerge into eminence and the populace merely put them in office by nominating them and casting their votes.

The election is over, and Victory has once more been declared by the winning party in conjunction with the members of the party which he represents. The winners are jubilant, and the losers are sad. If there were mistakes made they cannot be erased until the next election year rolls around, or if the elector under the high technicality of his office he may be impeached. The only sane solution for the unhappy minority is to accept the obvious fact that the election is over and admit that ballots, not complaints, win elections.

Notes From

THE EDITOR'S DESK

Technical Science Building Aids in Building Floats

Many favorable comments were made concerning Homecoming. One was, this year's Homecoming parade showed tremendous improvement over previous years. Much of this improvement was due to the fact that the new technical building housed the building of the floats. Last year, the majority of the decorating was done outdoors. Damp weather and dim lighting slowed down the production of the builders and decorators. This year, approximately 15 cars and floats were being constructed at the same time with the aid of modern machinery in the new tech building. Students also had ample time to begin preparing materials, thus better floats and cars were produced.

The Tiger's Roar Staff congratulates all the student organizations who helped make the Annual Homecoming celebration one that will be long remembered here. SSU

Pan-Hellenic Coffee Lift — Good Gesture

The coffee and doughnut lift sponsored by the Greek-letter fraternities and sororities October 14, was indeed a good gesture.

This year's lift was sponsored by the Pan Hellenic Council, Eddie Bryant. Each person working on a car or float was given a doughnut and a cup of coffee. The coffee not only served as a lift but a bridge builder to unity among the Greek-letter organizations.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Much is being said around the campus about the development of the individual as a whole; physically, mentally, emotionally, and socially I must admit that this is being done. To promote the first three of these aspects of the individual but little is being done to promote the fourth aspect (the social aspect).

I wonder if this thought has occurred to those in authority who are able to establish a better social program for the students who live on campus.

Our recreational center is open six nights a week for only a few hours. It closes at 11:00. In addition to being open a small length of time, it does not provide adequate entertainment. No planned activities are set up and the recreation consists of the regular routine throughout the year. At the center, week after week we play cards, dance and watch television daily except on Sundays when the center is closed and the students are left entirely out-of-doors socially.

I feel that we need more wholesome recreational and social activities to correct the present lag in the social aspect of our campus life, and it is my sincere hope that soon we will have these activities.

Sincerely,

Julia E. Cheely

TO THOSE WHO MADE IT POSSIBLE:

Echoes of praise have been coming our way through the President's Office, various committees, and other agencies expressing pleasure at the very fine spirit exhibited by the staff, student body, and administration toward those who visited us for the 1960 Homecoming activities.

Since the activities brought so much praise and enjoyment, the committee does not want to take all the credit, but would like to share it with you and others who made it possible for us to do the job well.

The parade, football game, half-time activities, dance, and the services rendered by the staff to the enjoyment of the public and indicated a fine spirit of co-operation, teamwork, and high degree of quality and taste.

We express our appreciation and request your cooperation in the future.

Sincerely yours,
The Homecoming Committee

Tigers Defeat Morris College At Homecoming

The Savannah State College Tigers piled up their biggest point margin for the 1960 campaign by turning back Morris College Hornets 22 to 6 before a partisan homecoming crowd of approximately 2,000 fans on the Savannah State College Football Field.

The Tigers were unable to score in the first quarter but came back in the second quarter to score two touchdowns and a two point conversion and lead the Hornets 14 to 6 at halftime.

The Tigers marched 60 yards or their first touchdown with the climax coming on a 30 yard pass from quarterback Nelson to halfback John Strong. Frank Tompkins went around end for the two point conversion. The second touchdown came on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Nelson to end Fred Carter. The conversion attempt was no good. The Hornets held the Tigers scoreless in the third quarter but the Tigers came back to climax their scoring when Nelson again completed another fine 20-yard pass to halfback Harold Cleveland. A pass from quarterback Nelson to halfback Frank Tompkins was good for the two point conversion making the final score SSC 22, Morris College 6.

Halfbacks Strong, Tompkins, Cleveland and Davis were the leading ground gainers. Quarterback Dennis Nelson had his best day in passing, completing 8 of 2 passes for 190 yards.

The outstanding linemen were Ben Spann, Eddie Bell, Floyd Walker, Fred Carter and a host of others.

Tigers Lose Three Games in a Row

The predominately freshman football Tigers dropped the last three games.

The first one to Benedict College 67 to 6, the second to Albany State College 19 to 0 and the third to Alabama State College 30 to 0.

Benedict 67 to 6

In the game between the Tigers and Benedict College, the Tigers drew first blood with a 88 yard drive that placed them out front with a six-point lead in just three minutes of the first quarter.

The Tigers held that lead for the entire first quarter and actually out played Benedict the first quarter, only to have the powerful Benedict squad come from behind in the second quarter to score some 35 points and lead by a score of 35 to 6 at the first half ended.

From the time the whistle blew to start the second half until the final gun sounded the Benedict squad was in complete command, scoring some 32 more points making the final score 87 to 6.

Albany 19-0

Albany's Melt Bostic and Ed Nelson provided a two-man offensive show for the unbeaten and unscored upon Albany State College as the ASC Rams unended SSC's Tigers 19-0.

Albany co-captain Bostic returned Ben Edwards game opening kick-off 80 yards for the first score and received a 31-yard pass from quarterback Art Gumble for another. Bostic, a 205 pounder who is used at any backfield position and at end, sped through the entire Tiger defense for the first touchdown.

A 22-yard field goal in the third quarter was nullified by an offside penalty.

Nelson, a reserve Ram fullback and kicking specialist, fell on the ball in the end zone in the fourth period after Tiger John Strong made an attempt for Nelson's kickoff. Nelson also kicked the extra point for the final score.

End Fred Carter and Linebacker Robert Leonard were outstanding defensively for the Tigers.

Alabama State College, 32, SSC 0
Alabama's halfback Washington Craig scored four touchdowns and a two-point conversion to lead Alabama State to a 32-0 victory over the Tigers.

The lost was the fourth for the Tigers against one win and one tie.

Craig started the scoring with a five-yard run after halfback David Wheatley returned a punt to the Tiger six-yard line. Alabama scored in the second quarter on an eight-yard pass from quarterback Steve Jefferson to end Bobby Carr. Craig ran the point.

The Tigers' defense, sparked by end Fred Carter, tackle Eddie Bell and line-backer Robert Leonard, turned back several drives in the quarter, but fell apart in the fourth. Craig hit paydirt three times in the final ten minutes of the game, with a 55-yard punt return in the remaining two minutes capping the scoring. The other runs were for 10 and 12 yards.

The Savannah State College basketball team will journey to Atlanta to compete in the Georgia Invitational basketball tournament December 1, 2, 3. The Tigers played in the G.I.T. in 1955 and won it by defeating Morris Brown College in the final game—incidentally, this was the first G.I.T. held.

Matching shots with the Tigers in the big three-day hardwood classic will be teams from Dillard University, New Orleans, La.; Jackson College, Jackson, Miss.; Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C.; Morris Brown College, Atlanta; Prairie View A & M College, Prairie View, Texas; Tennessee A & I State University, Nashville, Tenn.; and Winston-Salem Teachers College, Winston-Salem, N. C.

This annual pre-season contest is sponsored by Atlanta's Extra Point Club, Hubert M. Jackson, president, and the competing quintets were selected on the basis of the outstanding records compiled in their respective conferences last season.

The final selections, recommended by the Tournament Committee and approved by the Club, were based on the following won-loss records:

Dillard, 23-3; Jackson, 22-4; Johnson C. Smith, 18-4; Morris Brown, 22-6; Prairie View, 21-5; Savannah State, 28-8; Tennessee State, 27-4; and Winston-Salem, 19-5.

Defending GIT champions are the Prairie View Panthers, who upset the Grambling College Tigers, 84-79 in the champion finals last year. In the consolation finals, Kentucky State defeated Clark, 63-46 and North Carolina A & T won over Bethune-Cookman, 84-58.

Previous GIT champions are as follows:

- 1955—Savannah State College
- 1956—Morehouse College
- 1957—Florida A & M University
- 1958—Tennessee A & I State University
- 1959—Tennessee A & I State University

The Tigers are rated "very high and are given a good chance to win the tournament. Experience will not be lacking on the team.

The entire first team will be probable starters again this year. All of the players on the team have improved and will see action this season. The team began training November 1, and will be in top condition for the GIT.

Redell Walton, Ira Jackson, Willie Tate, Stephen Kelly, and Captain James Dixon, are the starting five from last season who SSC's chances will be riding on in the GIT.

This is the third year the SSC five have played together. Their only problem seems to be in finding a top reserve to fill the shoes of Robert Robbins who graduated last season. They may have their problem solved if Paul Thompson or Johnny Mathis can find themselves on the court. A lot will be expected from Alphonse McLean, the only senior on the team.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"NAW, THAT ISN'T NO LETTER SWEATER—THAT'S NO GRADE AVERAGE."

Since becoming a Tiger in 1957 John has been a standout in the halfback slot. He's a full-fledged threat to go the distance on any offensive play, whether he is flanked out for a pass or in tight for a trip into or around the line.

Elijah has been Captain of the Tigers for the past three years and is known throughout the SEAC as one of its finest wide-men. He's expected to continue to chop down rivals with devastating blocks and snare vital passes. McGraw, a former Servitean, was a member of the 1957 Tiger basketball squad.

Benjamin Spann, freshman, center and line-backer, delcues.

Quick and powerful, Bell has been a three-year standout in a powerful Tiger line. One of the SEAC's outstanding blockers, Eddie is equally at home providing pass protection or charging down hold knock out secondary defenders. He is also equally good on defense.

Quarterbacks Dennis Nelson and Bobby Dunbar shake hands as they agree on the game tactics of the season.

The Tiger's Roar Forum: A Column of Opinion

By Annette Kennedy

As a result of this article of student opinions and other articles which appeared in the last issue of the Tiger's Roar, some pertinent questions have been raised concerning the present status of the "school spirit."

This issue's article shall be devoted to student opinions concerning the school spirit at Savannah State College.

To the question, "Do you feel that the school spirit at SSC is deficient in any respect so as to become an area of basic concern?" the following replies were given.

Virginia Mercer—senior, Metter—"Yes, it is my opinion that there is something wrong with our school spirit. Take for example the present year book situation. Juniors were requested to take pictures at a designated date and only a minority have done so. To me this indicated a lack of school spirit and I feel we all need to closely analyze ourselves for this deficiency."

Deiores Clarke—sophomore, Savannah—"Yes, I do think that it should become an area of basic concern. The students do not take a sincere interest and pride in the activities on campus or their studies."

Willie Williams—senior, Savannah—"Yes, there is definitely a deficiency. What little display of school spirit that is shown is immediately forgotten, such as the pep rallies in the gym which are attended by a few."

Bernice Pinkney—Junior, Savannah—"Yes, it has reached a low enough ebb to become of basic concern. It is especially evident in the lack of pride of the campus and activities, especially sports."

Ruby Mitchell—advanced junior, Beaufort, S. C.—"Yes, it is very deficient. The students do not have enough interest in the intellectual phase of college life."

Carolyn Vinson—junior, Savannah—"I feel that if the students would only support the functions of the school wholeheartedly, the deficiency which is so very evident, would soon be eliminated."

Nathan Mark Right—senior—"This is not something that has just developed. This deficiency has been in existence for a period of time. Frankly, I think more to remedy this condition should be initiated immediately."

Phyllis Singfield—senior, Augusta—"Of course it should be of basic concern. What the students lack is a get up and go attitude."

Janetta Quinn—junior, Savannah—"It should have been an area of basic concern long ago. I for one, shall certainly check myself for any negligence on my part, and I hope other students will do likewise."

POET'S CORNER

A Lesson Well-Learned

By "Gem"
Of all the times to unloved,
I had to pick this year,
I know if my heart had but one choice,
To me it wouldn't be near.
Some folks think they're very smart;
They haven't a worldly care,
But little do they realize
That they, too, must pay a fare.
My fare, I hope, is now paid,
My share of woe, I've had,
I've now realized that breaking hearts
Is a dangerous fad.

Circumstance

By Charles H. Lee
Tonight as the wind beats
against my window pane,
And nature plays havoc with her
strange of rain,
I wonder why I am such a pompous fool.
To be used as some casual implement or tool.
Yet I am happy in such a primeval state,
I am resigned to my mortal fate,
Caught in the midst of chance
I am.
Willing to let love die like a sacrificed lamb.

"Wonder"

By Eddie W. Bryant, Jr.
Did you ever stop to wonder
About the things you see,
The things that God made for man
And the things he made them to be.
He made a man from dirt and clay
Gave him a soul so he could pray
Made him legs to guide his way
And gave him vision from day to day
The wonders of this world, and all you see,
God made them for you, and made them for me.

The Heart

By "Gem"
The heart is but a tiny organ,
Too much it cannot bear;
It, too, must be fondled;
It mustn't ever know fear.
If fear should but ever appear,
The heart will never be the same,
For a heart once made wild,
Can never again be tame.

What Is Probation?

By Verdelle Lambert

During the last fourteen days in November, the pledges of the various Greek letter organizations at Savannah State College will go through the final phase of their pledging—probation. The initiation probation of each sorority and fraternity, however, does not exceed seven days.

All of the Greek letter organizations on our campus have open as well as closed probation. When the members of a sorority or fraternity meet privately with their probates (during the seven days period) this is known as "closed probation." When the probates demonstrate before the public, this is known as "open probation."

Interestingly enough, this period, on some campuses, is referred to as "hell week." No such term has been attached to this week at Savannah State College; essentially though, it is a "fun week," for the spectators as well as the probates.

The following information has been compiled in order to familiarize the student body to the general probation customs and procedures of the various Greek letter organizations.

Probates of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority are called barbarians. Their colors are red and white. They perform the "duck walk." The sorority has five pledges.

Probates of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity are called dogs. They wear a dog collar and carry a shield and a sword. They are known as the "marching dogs." The fraternity has twelve pledges.

Probates of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority are called barbarians. Their colors are blue and white. They perform the "Z step." The sorority has nine pledges.

Probates of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity are called dogs. They perform the "Kappa March." The fraternity has four pledges.

Probates of Alpha Kappa Sorority are called worms. Their colors are pink and green and their walk is called "Worming." The sorority has seven pledges.

Probates of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity are called dogs. They carry black and gold bricks and seven books to represent the seven founders of the fraternity. They march to the "Alpha Cadence." The fraternity has thirteen pledges.

Probates of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority are called barbarians. Their colors are royal blue and gold and they carry umbrellas. The sorority has three pledges.

Probates of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity are called dogs. The fraternity has no pledges.

Men's Fashions

By Eddie W. Bryant, Jr.

Winter Is Here

Winter time is here, so let's think out the heavy ones. With our new storm colored coats, the son, a purple tweed coat with leather pocket flaps would be ideal to wear. Or if you prefer the tall slim look, try the new topcoat with the contoured silhouette. . . a lower collar, tapered sleeves, and a short length.

For those who prefer knitwear, knitting machines have barmed many tricks. Now with your knitted Mott Sahl sweater, striped in Chianti and Concord, you can carry along a knitted jacket for a quick change or even the knitted topcoat with that slim look. An inner lining of man-made pile adds much to the comfort, little to the poundage.

For those who prefer a wool topper, the softness of a woolen pullover sweater, gold, olive or grey, would swing together with your gray and light checked coat. A knitted sports coat, or knitted red blazer, would be swinging for dates or for any dressier sports occasion.

ALPHA'S FLOAT WINS FIRST PLACE: Miss Annette Kennedy, Alpha's Sweetheart, glides along as "The Queen of Dreams," in the Homecoming parade. This creation won first prize in the float competition.

SECOND PLACE FLOAT, "CINDERELLA": The division of Technical Sciences float, "Cinderella," won the judges decision for the second place trophy in the annual Homecoming parade. Miss Margaret Tiggs reigned as "Miss Technical Sciences."

Campus Spotlight

By Yvonne McGlockton

Junaita Quinn, junior, social science major

David Bodison, senior, business administration major Campus Spotlight, a regular feature of THE TIGER'S ROAR, pays tribute to distinguished students who through their scholarship, service, loyalty and attitudes have merited this tribute.

In this edition, the Spotlight salutes one junior and one senior, Junaita Quinn and David Bodison, for their noteworthy contributions to campus life here at Savannah State College.

Junaita, a native of Savannah is a junior majoring in social science and maintains above a "B" average cumulatively.

"Junie" as she is called by many of her associates, is affiliated with several campus organizations. Among these are: Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority (assistant dean of pledges); the Tiger Yearbook staff, the college playhouse and the Social Science Club. Recently, she was one of the 16 students on this campus elected to "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities for 1960-61." Her ambition is to become a juvenile delinquent case worker after she does graduate work in the field of Sociology.

hobby-wise, she enjoys sewing, cooking, reading and listening to music. Junaita states her philosophy in life thus: "confidence in myself, faith in mankind and God, for the perpetuation of a better society."

Bodison, also a native of Savannah, is a senior majoring in business administration. He states that receiving a scholarship from Omega Psi Phi Fraternity greatly influenced him to come to college.

Presently, his campus affiliations include the Entrepreneur (editor-in-chief), Business Club, Tiger's Roar staff (typist) and Business Manager of the senior class.

David is the type of individual who does not stand out because of honors, achievements, etc. Instead, he stands out because of his willingness to work, cooperative attitude, and ability to get along with his fellowman.

His leisure time is spent fishing, hunting, and reading. Chinese chop suey and Mexican hot tamales are his favorite foods. His ambition is to become a general accountant. Bodison's philosophy is a simple one—"anything worth having is worth working for."

The writer of this column is proud to add these two personalities to the Spotlight roster. May you continue to be the outstanding persons that your schoolmates and teachers have found you to be.

FINE SPIRIT EXHIBITED AT HOMECOMING; COLORFUL PARADE, FOOTBALL FEATURED

The day is over but the memory lingers on. In the hearts of the Savannah State College family and its friends lingers many memories of the 1960 Homecoming activities. Many words of praise have been received from various sources expressing pleasure at the fine spirit exhibited by all.

The activities of Homecoming day began with a colorful parade through the city of Savannah, followed by the football game on Savannah State College Athletic Field where the State Tigers clashed with the Morris College team and came out victorious with a score of 22-6.

The half-time activities were superb. President W. K. Payne, the Savannah State College Student Council president, "Miss SSC" and her court, "Miss Morris" and her court, and "Miss National Alumni" and her court all took part in the activities. "Miss Morris" extended greetings from Morris College. "Miss Alumni" expressed her appreciation for the honor bestowed upon her; and "Miss SSC" welcomed all.

The half-time activities were culminated with a beautiful performance, "Dreamboat," by the Savannah State College band.

The day's activities ended with a dance in Wilcox gymnasium with Mr. Samuel Gill and the Savannah State Collegiates rendering the music. The gym was beautifully decorated in keeping with the general Homecoming theme, "A World of Dreams."

Winners of trophies and cups for floats and cars decorated and participating in the parade were: In the float division, first place, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity; second place, Technical Science Division, and third place, Physical Education Majors. In the car division, first place, Social Science Department; second place, Sophomore Class, and third place Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. Congratulations to these departments, classes and organizations.

Start planning now to make 1961 Homecoming even more successful than 1960 was.

Campus Representative for Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation Named

Mr. Hans Rosenhaupt, National Director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation has, through the office of Dr. W. K. Payne, President of Savannah State College, appointed Dr. N. V. McCullough as campus representative for the Foundation. The Foundation offers fellowships for graduate study for those students who are majoring in the humanities or social studies. Applicants must have a B or better average and are urged to consider college teaching as a career. There is no mandate that the student must engage in college teaching upon completion of his graduate study, but it is hoped that he would consider the prospect of doing so. Thus, the foundation seeks to interest the most capable undergraduates in

Since American institutions of higher learning, like the public schools, will need many more capable instructors and professors, the Foundation desires to encourage young Americans to enter the fields of the humanities and social science, especially since there are already adequate fellowships, grants and grants-in-aid for study and work in the sciences.
