Triumph vs. Defeat

By Louis Hills Pratt, '58

When two persons or groups of persons take opposite sides on an issue, triumph and defeat are the probable consequences. The prize of the winner is triumph and defeat is the loser's lot.

It is generally easy to profit from a triumph, and therefore, success here is said to lead to the potential profits of defeat.

Technically, one can never be two winners in any case. But if the experience derived from an encounter profits each party equally, then is complete triumph.

It is here that I quote Keel who stated, "There are more defeats that are more triumphant than victories".

The object here is an attempt to show how both victorious and non-victorious experiences may promote victory.

Success in a field of endeavor depends not so much on victory as it does on the use one makes of the total experiences derived from his defeats and triumphs.

I should think that the noblest and wisest men who have ever lived were those who consistently searched defeat for some lesson or moral, and have utilized this product in future encounters.

The first step toward defeat is lack of confidence. Secondly, determination falters, resulting in despair and the ill-founded conclusion that defeat is inevitable. This is the ideal step-off for defeat, for once one sees defeat as inevitable, it invariably ensues. However, if we endeavor to retain our self-confidence and make a sincere effort to view the situation in its real light, rather than from a pessimistic or idealistic point of view, our chances for success would be increased, thus promoting our potentialities.

The duration of our determination should be dependent upon the relationship of the value of expended efforts to the value of the anticipated gain through victory. Otherwise, the value of our efforts may exceed our victorious gain. Thus, we have achieved a triumph that could hardly be termed victorious, and which might be termed a "Pyrrhic Victory", which is a triumph gained at too great a cost.

What Happens On The Road

Isaiah McIver

Only a small minority of the students at any college in the United States or any other country ever get the opportunity to travel along with their football, basketball or other teams when they have games to play on the road. If some of the staunch supporters of the game of football or basketball could see what happens to the visiting team they would lose all interest in a game of basketball or football.

It is quite evident that all of the games can't be played in the home stadium or on the home court. However, in many of the conferences it is almost impossible to win a game on an opponent's home court and the only reason you can win a football game away from home in

The Periscope

Weston

For the first time since 1947, the Free National Assembly elected a Socialist as premier. Guy Mollet elected by an overwhelming majority will head the twenty-second postwar cabinet. Needing the support of the Communists to win, he stated that no commitments had been made nor would any be made to them.

Mollet called for peace in North Africa where the French have been engaged in combat with Algerian rebels for months. He called for more liberty and justice for the North Africans; most social reform programs calling for the establishment of an old-age fund and longer vacation; and changes in the constitution and in the election system.

The followers of Poujade, however, vigorously opposed Mollet for the premiership. Poujade in outlining his program for the French decrees that they must turn over their salaries to him. (Each deputy makes about $600 a month). He plans a revival of the old States-General, a medieval body composed of the clergy, the nobility and the bourgeoisie. Poujade promises that his Deputies will act as the Premier and command of the National Assembly a modern States-General having four classes: shopkeepers and other tradesmen; farmers; employees; and the academic class.

This writer wonders if the French people will support Poujade's proposal as he expects of them. Even though the French are desperate for a change that will stabilize their government, making it more difficult for the Premier and his cabinet to be overthrown, only an idiot can expect the people to accept such a drastic change because it was the States-General that classed the uprising among the French in 1789.

Once again Russia is portraying the "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" role.

Recently Bulgaria submitted through Russia's ambassador George Zlatkov an invitation to the United States to join in a twenty-year non-aggression pact between the two countries.

President Eisenhower in referring to this offer pointed out that the treaty was not invited covered by the charter of the United Nations. He also pointed out that the Communists have refused to try to unify Germany by free election and to permit "open skies" inspection as a step to non-aggression.

While Russia desires peace by words, their actions indicate otherwise. For the past years they have provoked incidents of conflicts all over the world. In recent times they have been invading the waters of Norway; creating anti-West feelings in Europe in the history of education than that presented by the American citizen of the Negro race.

Let us as Negroes keep striving to make the future more successful than our past. "As we climb the ladder of progress let our goals be to find success."

Message From The President

As one visits some cities I note the United States, his attention is often drawn to their orderliness and cleanliness. Wherever such conditions are maintained one feels uplifted as he passes or pauses. This same feeling of buoyancy shows itself in many types of situations and many different places. If a study is made of schools, the extent to which the rooms and facilities are in order and clean becomes an index of the type of teachers and pupils who study and learn there. Dormitory rooms, assembly halls, lounging centers, and play areas all produce a similar feeling when they are neat, clean, and orderly. Parking areas often indicate the thoughtfulness and the extent to which habits of cleanliness have been generalized.

Students acquire habits in these areas in much the same way as they acquire other kinds of learning. A student who arranges his work in mathematics systematically and orderly does not become confused when he reaches the problem area. Written and oral expression also show evidences of system and order. There are no areas in our school and school activities where system and order will not improve the results which we hope to achieve. Individuals who make up our school community can decide to create an inspiring and beautiful college. As an institution achievement, it must first be an individual achievement by those who study and work here. Savannah State College should create an atmosphere which makes learning and habit forming in the area of cleanliness and orderliness increasingly enjoyable.

Paradise

By Isaiah McIver

We shall meet above the stars
That shine in silent skies my love.

When only love and joy
are found

Far above the sorrowing seas,
Where love's tender words are heard

And the songs of love forever rise,
Where only we shall reign in joy

Upon our thrones in paradise.
Afar from all shadows and gloom

Where mellow Aeolian is known
And perfumed gardens of flowers bloom.

Is where we will be forever more
In love's eternal paradise.

The unblinking stars shall fill the skies

And the birds will sing a tune
as sweet

As the harmonies from a
Heavenly choir

Shall fill our souls to paradise.

Former Student Appointment At Syracuse U.

Miss Ida Girven, graduate of Savannah State College, captain of its championship girls' basketball team and an all-around student, is the cadet in charge of the Library School at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N. Y. There are four assistants working with her. Miss Girven's major was social science. She is a native of Amsterdam, Georgia and has a three year basketball scholarship at Savannah State College.

The cadetships are the most popular in the field of library service. In cooperation with the Syracuse University Library, the School of Library Studies is enabled to appoint six graduate students each year to post on the library staff for a period of two years. These cadets are permitted to undertake studies in the school to the amount of two courses each in the fall and spring term and one in the summer term of tuition charges. They are engaged on a 30 hour basis with a basic salary.

Eye For Eye

A small boy leading a donkey, passed an army camp. A couple of soldiers wanted to have some fun with the lad.

"Why are you holding on to your brother so tight, Sonny?" said one of the soldiers.

"So he won't join the army," the youngster replied without blinking an eye.

What Happens On

many instances is because the visiting team is a great deal better than home team.

In basketball more so than football, it seems as though the officials are out to give the visitors a defeat. In many cases it seems as though the officials are giving the members that are high scoring players are to wear, and when the game starts the officials start their cheating process of calling traveling, even when the player isn't walking or they will call fouls that haven't been committed by the player whom the referee tells to raise his hands. These accusations sound fantastic to those people who never get the chance to travel with their team. However, the visiting team and the small number of visiting students don't know these aren't accusations, but facts.

On numerous occasions the referee calls non-committed fouls on the visiting team especially when the visitors are in the lead so that the home team will have a chance to tie the score or take the lead. Crimes of this sort on the part of officials in taking all of the life out of some of our favorite pastimes and if these criminals who are out to win a game for the home team aren't removed from their key slots, the game of basketball will soon become something of the past.

If officials are going to keep their unfair practices all interest will be lost in these games.

Unless some of the people who are in responsible positions start doing something to correct these practices in their areas, the teams will only be able to win at home, and if they do play away from home, all of the life will be out of the game because the visitors will be of the opinion that they are going to lose since the home team will always have seven players instead of the five that are supposed to play in an official game of basketball.

Campus Police Appointed

By Daniel Washington

The Office of Student Personnel Services is happy to announce the appointment of two young men to the positions of campus policemen. These young men are Frank Chappel and Albert King. It will be their duty to direct auto control traffic here on the campus. They will also have the authority to act as regular policemen in case of emergencies.

Formation of the campus police has been for a long time a part of the overall plans of the President and college development. These plans are being implemented presently.

There are many benefits to be had from the inauguration of the traffic and safety program throughout the community. These benefits include the personal protection of the students, the faculty and staff and many visitors we have on the campus. The campus police will also benefit the college and the Civil Defense Program in the immediate vicinity by participation in the Civil Defense evacuation program.

The Savannah State College family is asked to comply with the rules and regulations that have been set up by the campus police. We need the complete co-operation of each individual student and faculty member in carrying this program over.

Off-Campus Women's Association

By Emily Singleton

The Off-Campus Women's Association was formed by Miss Jordan and is composed of all all-campus women. These women plan and take part in activities on and off campus.

We are a member of the IWA (Intercollegiate Women's Association). We have been invited to attend the annual convention of the IWA which will be held at the University of Oklahoma. We are planning to send a delegate to represent our school.

The purpose of this organization is to bring about a closer relationship with the off-campus and the dormitory students, and also to promote self-government among women.

There is a special planning committee of several girls. They are Connie Lewis, Genoris Magwood, Selma Williams, Emily Singleton, and Janie Pearson. Miss Jordan is the advisor.

Otis Brock
By Isalah Melver

Otis Jerome (Batman) Brock is a senior majoring in Social Science and minoring in Physical Education. He is scheduled to graduate in June of this year.

His home town is Montezuma, Georgia and he is 6 feet 4 inches worth of powerful, terrorizing and explosive humanity on the basketball court.

His basketball career began at Macon County Training School of Montezuma. The superb skill which he demonstrated in the tournaments in which he participated in high school gained him a reputation and a scholarship to play basketball at Savannah State.

Brock entered Savannah State in the fall of 1952 and immediately became one of the Tiger's mainstays. His excellent offensive and defensive playing was one of the main reasons why Savannah State became conference and tournament champions in 1952. In 1953 he reached his pinnacle in basketball. Aside from being named as a member of the All-Conference team, he was also selected as the most valuable player in the S.E.A.C. He has been selected to the All-Conference team for two consecutive years and he is a strong contender for All-Conference honors again this season.

Even though he has scored thousands of points as a member of the Tiger's basketball team, has been selected to the All-Conference team twice and has been named the most valuable player in the conference once, he considers being president of Delta Eta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha as the position that he will cherish most.

Thirty-three is the highest number of points that Brock has been able to score this season. He accomplished this feat against Aiken University on February 11, in Wiley Gymnasium. Last season he scored 38 points against Fort Valley State College.

Basketball is just one of the sports in which Brock participates. In baseball he is Savannah State's top pitcher. Football is another sport that he plays quite well, but he failed to venture into this area after he entered Savannah State. Upon graduation he plans to enter Law School or become a high school basketball coach. He said that the beautiful campus, the many exciting basketball and baseball games in which he has participated have helped to make these four years enjoyable ones.

The Track Team

Savannah State's track team, which has been conference champions for the past four years, has begun practice. This season promises to be another championship season for the Tigers.

Along with such reliable speedsters as L. J. McDaniel and Anderson Kelly, the Tigers have some very impressive high school stars such as Cleveland Holmes, the James boys, Sammy White, James Wallace, Willie Batchelor and Jewel Mitchell. Mitchell has just returned from the army and Fort Benning's championship 440 relay team. With all of the former high school stars, army stars and those champs from last season, the Tigers are going to be the team this season.

Thunderbolt's Centennial

By Gloria Moultre

Many students traveling to and from Savannah State College by way of Thunderbolt, have become accustomed to the familiar Bennets characteristic of the middle 1800's, worn by the ladies of this community, and the men sporting their beards, not because they want to; but it's just a matter of buying a license, for three dollars, or being arrested by one of the lost angles (policemen). No resident has been excused, the Mayor, Chief of Police, along with the clerk and the town aldermen, also sporting their beards likewise.

As the celebration neared many of the residents took their bonnets and beards as a part of their daily routine.

The Town of Thunderbolt was established about 1856, with the commissioner type government.

Many residents give the following account of the town receiving its name: "a bolt of lightning struck a rock causing a spring to flow forth, near the old casino. The Indians then called it Thunderbolt."

In keeping with the celebration a number of events were planned, which will include a street parade, a carnival, mid-way, bazaar, speedboat races, and an address by the Governor of Georgia.

A beard growing contest was in progress; prizes were given for the most unique beards, etc. To highlight these festivities a King and Queen were selected from the younger set.
